

Swimming Mother Happy; Eats Chop Suey, Dances

Lotty Moore Schoemmel, the life guard who began a swim a week ago Sunday, at Albany, to make a record to New York, and who did it, is a happy woman today. Last night she at chop suey at the McAlpin, and then danced.

Mrs. Schoemmel illustrates life-saving methods in the McAlpin pool at 10:30 this morning, will have lunch at the Press Club, and rest for the afternoon.

Magistrate Flood in West Farms Court put off action yesterday on the summons against her husband, Martin till tomorrow, as neither party was in court. The swimmer charges her mate with unlawful possession of her household effects.

Mrs. Schoemmel lowered the record of 63 hours and 35 minutes, made in August, 1921, by Mille Gade Corson, by 6 hours and 24 minutes.

Off 72d Street the swimmer was met by her two children and relatives.

Simpson Seeking New Indictments

who tried to halt them, the officers went upstairs and entered the room where Mrs. Clark was, believed to be lying ill.

They found the woman dressed in a pink kimono and wearing mud-spattered street shoes. Dr. A. A. Lawton, who accompanied the party, examined Mrs. Clark, and said he found no traces of the nervous malady which she has claimed has afflicted her since the day, several weeks ago, when Simpson's probe linked her with the Hall-Mills murders.

First Declined to Go

Walsh, after the warrant had been read, ordered the woman to dress and prepare to leave for jail. She declined, pleading physical inability for the trip.

Walsh suggested an ambulance. He dispatched a trooper to a New Brunswick hospital. Then Mrs. Clark rose from her bed and agreed to go.

As she left the house, leaning heavily on the arms of Walsh and Burke, while she clutched a flopping hat brim downward to avoid photographers, flashlights flared and boomed.

Leaning from a window of a house across the street, an old woman shrieked derisively:—"Good-by, Lemon Meringue."

The taunter later explained that Mrs. Clark had been dubbed "Lemon Meringue," by neighbors ever since the day she had baked a lemon meringue pie for Dr. Hall.

The pastry, Dr. Hall's favorite dish, had been thrown out of a window by an indignant member of the Hall household, the woman said.

Followed by Her Attorney

Following Mrs. Clark on the ride Somerville was Freeman Woodbridge, her attorney. As his client was being fingerprinted, Woodbridge dashed into state trooper headquarters.

Attorney and client went to Judge Cleary's office together. There Woodbridge appealed for immediate bail for his client. Judge Cleary overruled the move.

Except for a few moments of hysteria immediately after her arrest and occasional flashes of anger when delayed by petty details of her incarceration, the woman was completely calm and collected.

Addison Clark, a printer, who has been married to Mrs. Clark for twenty-five years, appeared disconsolate as she was taken away.

He followed her to Somerville, and arranged to have special meals sent her while she is confined.

Lonely Hearts

NOTICE—The Lonely Hearts Column serves as a medium through which lonely persons who write to THE GRAPHIC may be introduced to congenial companions. No names will be published. Letters accompanied by a reference and inclosing a stamp will be forwarded to the proper parties. If you are lonely, write to this department and watch for your letter to appear in this column. While letters will be exchanged as promptly as possible, THE GRAPHIC, of course, cannot be responsible when correspondents fail to answer. Address Lonely Hearts Column, New York Evening GRAPHIC, 25 City Hall Place.

SHE WALKS TO WORK

Lonely Hearts: I wonder if there are some boys and girls living near the Williamsburg Bridge who would care to walk across the bridge with me at about 7.50 every morning? If so, will they please communicate with

CHARLOTTE.

SEEKS DISCONTENTED GIRL

Lonely Hearts: Somewhere there is a Jewish girl who, for some reason, is discontented with life; a girl who is having a hard struggle for existence, yet who has a pleasant disposition. Into such a girl's life I could bring sunshine and happiness in the form of a sincere friendship, as I have gone through the mill, too. I am 27.

DISCONTENTED.

TWO WANT GIRL FRIENDS

Lonely Hearts: We are two lonely girls who would like to meet other girls who are lonely. We want only refined, well-mannered young ladies who can appreciate true friends. We are Jewish, 20 and 22. Would like to hear from girls living in Brooklyn, if possible.

TWO.

HE'S PERFECT, GIRLS

Lonely Hearts: A gentleman, Roman Catholic, good looking, of striking appearance and good personality would like to meet a refined young lady about 25. The writer is 27, an all-round athlete, enjoys all clean sports and sings baritone.

RALPH.

WHO LIKES FAT GIRLS?

Lonely Hearts: Does anybody like a fat girl? I am brunette, 5 feet 7, age 20 and not bad looking. Am a Protestant and would like to meet some one about 25 years old. Will answer all letters.

ELEANOR.

Peaches Scorns Daddy's "Tears"

forget all that when we settled down peacefully in a nice home of our own.

I might have detected other faults too, but my head was in a swirl with this new thrilling sensation of love. I was completely overpowered.

I do not regret that I loved, but I regret that I loved unwisely. Perhaps it could have been helped, perhaps not; but I do not want any one else to suffer for my mistake. I do not want any other girl in the world to give up a single bit of happiness she gets from her own love.

Did Mr. Browning move his residence to New Jersey to try to obtain a divorce for his wife? Is he already seeking a new companion in his strange love? In tomorrow's chapter of her own story Mrs. Browning discusses these subjects without reserve.
